David Walls is the Vice President of Business Support Initiatives for the International Code Council.

Walls has many years of experience in code development and the building industry as a California licensed general contractor and local code official.

Walls previously served as the Executive Director of the California Building Standards Commission, which oversees the adoption and publication of the California building codes. There, he successfully led the annual adoptions of the California Building Codes and the development and adoption of CALGreen (the California Green Code).

In all he spent over twenty years with the State of California and local jurisdictions implementing, developing and processing regulations.
